

WELCOME NEWCOMERS!

If this is the first time you have attended the Traditional Latin Mass, you may have noticed that our parishioners do not dress casually in the church. Since the changes in the Church, few parishes have any kind of dress code. Here, however, we still believe that modesty and appropriate attire are necessary, especially in Church out of reverence for the Blessed Sacrament. Please observe these minimum standards of dress for attendance at Church services:

- Women and girls must cover their heads. Chapel veils or mantillas are available for loan in the vestibule. They should also wear dresses or skirts that cover the knee completely when standing or sitting; slacks, shorts, sleeveless, tight or low cut clothing are not permitted.
- Men and boys should wear a suit coat and tie
- Jeans and other casual attire are inappropriate for attendance at Church services.
- Also, unless you have been attending the Latin Mass exclusively, you should refrain from receiving Holy Communion until you have had an opportunity to meet with Father.

We are always happy to see new faces at Mary Immaculate Queen Church and we look forward to seeing you again.

SAINT MARTIN OF TOURS-Bishop & Confessor

This great and renowned saint was born in Pannonia or Hungary, about the year 317. He removed, at an early age, with his parents to Pavia in Italy where he was educated. His father occupied a position of honor in the Roman army. At ten years of age, against the will of his parents, St. Martin enrolled himself among the catechumens in order to be instructed in the doctrines of Christianity. Even at that tender age he felt a call to the monastic state, but at fifteen years of age he was compelled to enter the army, in which, however, he lived more as a saint than as a soldier. In his eighteenth year he received the Sacrament of Baptism and sometime later he entered the military service. He next went to St. Hilary, Bishop of Poitiers, by whom he was ordained exorcist, his humility preventing him from receiving the character of deacon, with which the Bishop wished to invest him. On a short visit to his parents in Pannonia, he had the happiness of converting his mother, but his father remained a heathen. Learning that St. Hilary had been banished, he began to lead a retired life near Milan. On the return of St. Hilary, he followed him to Poitiers and built a monastery at Ligugé, where he lived until he was chosen Bishop of Tours in 371.

In his new dignity he continued to lead the same humble and mortified life as before. At first he lived in a little cell near the church, but he afterward laid the foundations of the celebrated monastery of Marmoutier, which then consisted only of a series of grottoes in the rock, or of wooden cells, in which the holy Bishop and his disciples dwelt and performed their exercises of piety. A number of disciples flocked to his monastic standard, and he thus became the founder of monasticism in Gaul, as St. Anthony had been in Egypt and St. Hilarion in Palestine. This monastery also became a nursery of Bishops, such was the reputation of the disciples of St. Martin. The zealous labors of the saint succeeded in extirpating idolatry from the diocese of Tours and the neighboring parts of Gaul. Although in the midst of the heresies of his time, he was a staunch adherent of the Catholic Faith. He, as well as St. Ambrose, energetically protested against those who would put heretics to death. The life of this great saint was one of constant prayer. His virtues were also rewarded by an extraordinary gift of miracles. Lives of the Saints, pgs 443-444
